

Are you a self-employed sports coach or working with/responsible for self-employed coaches in a sports coaching programme?

Do you know where you can find out about the strict self-employment tax rules & tax penalties due if the taxman rules that you or a member of your team is not self-employed?

Do you know where you can get a comprehensive guide to these issues and other essential 'business in sport' information & resources?

GBSport

Our BUSINESS ESSENTIALS four hour training course provides an essential guide to the rules, regulations and best practice required for anyone involved in delivering a sports coaching programme and/or engaging the services of coaches

business essentials

It is a little known fact that a coach cannot just declare themselves as self-employed. Revenue & Customs have strict guidelines for self-employment that can be a minefield for a coach and their client, as well as financially disastrous should the taxman later rule that their relationship is one of employment and then demand back tax and penalties.

The BUSINESS ESSENTIALS training course explains the rules and regulations surrounding self-employment and what to do to ensure you don't fall foul of the taxman. It details how a self-employment relationship should operate to ensure the requirements are met and provides delegates with a sample contract and handbook to use in their programme.

The course also details the other options available for engaging the services of coaches, including the use of casual workers, zero hour contracts and the rights and responsibilities of being an employer of coaches.

The complex VAT and insurance rules surrounding sports coaching are also covered in depth to provide you with an invaluable four hour course that will enable you to keep on the right side of the taxman.

The cost of the course is just £40 including resources so book your place today by calling us on 01952 201657 - we look forward to hearing from you
